MAKING IT OFFICIAL...

BOOKING THE REGISTRATION OFFICER

As soon as provisional arrangements for the date and time on which you wish to be married have been made, you should contact the Registration Office local to the premises. Your ceremony date and time must be agreed with the registrar before we can formally accept your booking.

Without the presence of two Registration Officers there can be no marriage. It is your responsibility to make the necessary booking with the Registration Office.

GIVING NOTICE

Before a marriage can be solemnised, you must give notice of marriage to the Registration Officer in the county in which you live. If you live in different counties, a separate notice must be given in each.

The notices must be given in person by both and cannot be given more than twelve months in advance and no less than 28 days before the date of the marriage. It is your responsibility to ensure that notice is properly given.

COLLECTING THE AUTHORITY

When notice is given in a different country from the one where the marriage is taking place, you will have to collect the authorities from their local register office and make arrangements to deliver them to the officiating Registration Officer at least two days before the marriage.

FORM OF CEREMONY

The content of the ceremony must be agreed in advance with the Registration Officer who will be attending the ceremony. Any music, reading or words, which form part of the ceremony, must be secular.

Once the Registration Officers have left the Pier, the couple can continue their celebration by having a blessing or other religious ceremony if they wish.
